SEO for Jobs

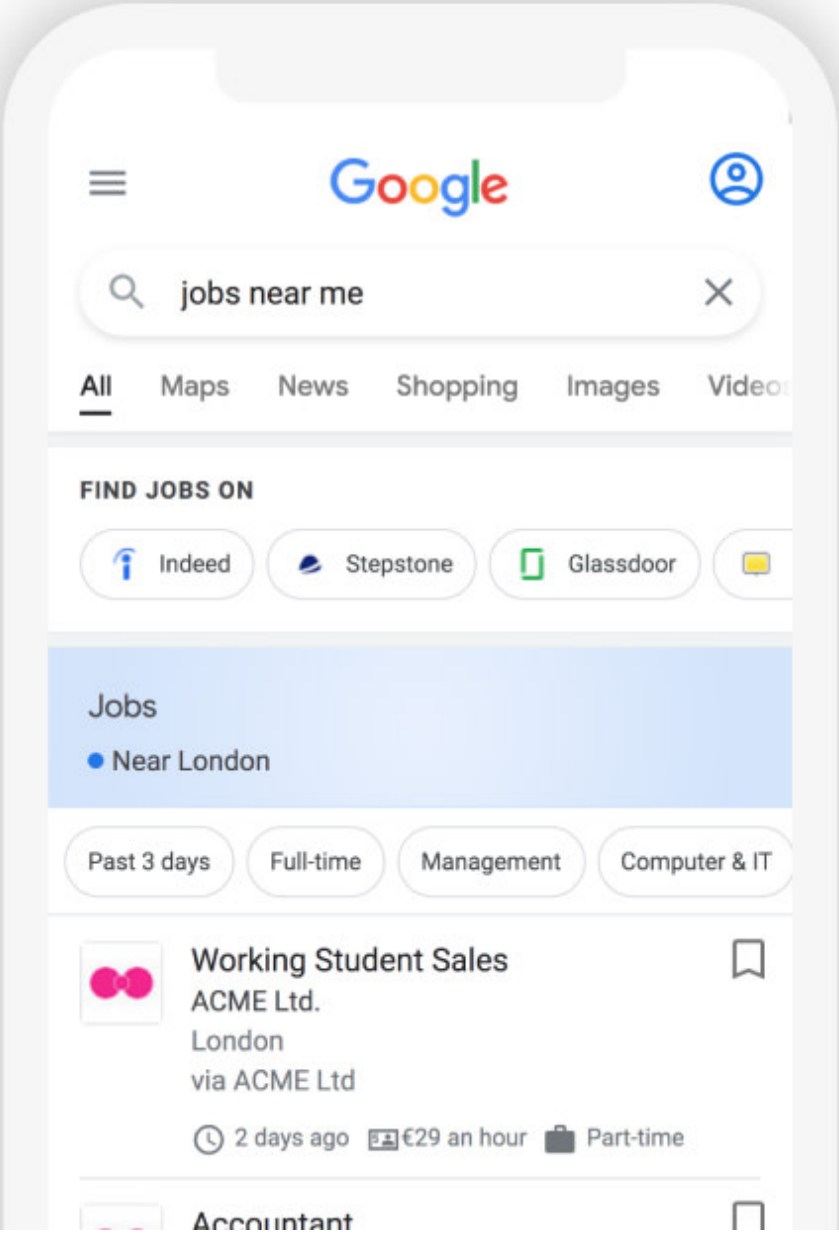

Google for Jobs – A Brief Introduction

Google's new job search feature makes the search engine giant the world's largest job board. Based on the search query, Google determines whether the user is looking for a new job and then displays job listings directly on the first search results page. To get a feel for Google for Jobs, you can search Google for "Jobs Near Me."

Job listings on Google are highlighted in a blue box. Clicking "More jobs" opens Google for Jobs in full-screen mode with additional search and filter options.

Google for Jobs has been available at Philippines since February 2019. Nevertheless, the new search feature is not yet widely known in the HR departments of many companies. In our daily conversations with clients, half of them have never seen Google for Jobs themselves.

Technically, Google for Jobs is based on structured data that must be stored on the website. This usually requires the assistance of a programmer.
